

BENEDICK'S LOVE LETTER

TASK

Imagine you are Benedick and you want to tell Beatrice that you love her! Apologize for insulting her and tell her about your feelings.

Dear Beatrice,

As I write you this letter, I am feeling bad about having said so many nasty things about you. I don't know why I always behave like this in your presence. I would do everything in order to revoke my words.

There is only one thing, I don't want to revoke. I told you that I love none of the women I know – apart from you.

Maybe you might think that I am joking. But believe me! I am honest. This time, I won't insult you and I will never do it again. On the contrary – I want to tell you why you are the one I admire. The one I want to spend every second with. The one I love.

I love you because of your humour, your self-assurance, your eloquence. I have never met such a woman like you – being, on the one hand, so strong and impressive and, on the other hand, so attractive and gracile.

Please give me a chance to show you that I am the opposite of the Benedick you got to know. I would love to ask you for dinner this Friday.

Awaiting to hear from you.

Love,

Benedick
