

Recommended reading for freshmen at the English department II (modules BM1 & BM2); compiled in January 2021 to prepare for the ILC and ALC classes, regularly read online articles that you can find on The Guardian or The Atlantic, for example.

for grammar, you will be working with the following book for self study:
Foley M.; Diane Hall. Advanced Learners' Grammar. Longman, 2012.

we further recommend:

Swan, Michael. Practical English Usage. Oxford University Press, 2016.

and

Parrott, M. Grammar for English Language Teachers. Cambridge University Press, 2010².

In Academic Writing, we read different primary sources but the following offers good basic information:

Siepmann, Dirk; John Gallagher et al. Writing in English: A Guide for Advanced Learners. UTB Francke, 2011.

for Phonetics and Phonology:

Davis, John F. Phonetics and Phonology. Klett, 2007. (or later editions)

Skandera, P.; P. Burleigh. A manual of English Phonetics and Phonology. Narr, 2005.

for SLA and I-Ling:

Mitchell, R.; Myles and F. Marsden, E. Second Language Learning Theories. Routledge, 2019⁴.

VanPatten, B.; J. Williams (eds.). Theories in Second Language Acquisition. An Introduction. Routledge, 2019².
